

SABA

Dear Neighbor,

My name is Valencia Toomer. I'm the Founder/Head of School at Pittsboro's School of the Arts for Boys Academy (SABA). I'm reaching out to families in Chatham County to share some information with you about our school, which will start classes in mid-August.

We're a tuition-free school that will begin by serving boys in grades 3-to-6, with a rigorous academic and arts-based focus. (By adding a new grade each subsequent year, our students will be able to attend SABA for their entire scholastic career).

As a long-time educator, I fully appreciate all the excitement and nervousness that can accompany the days leading up to a new school year! If your family sees continuing in your present school as the best academic path for your children, I earnestly wish you the best of success this year. I'll be pulling for you and your family! If I and the SABA organization can be of service to you in any regard with your schooling activities at any time in the future, please do not hesitate to contact me.

If you find yourself wondering if there might be other options worth exploring for your elementary schooled-aged son, I hope you will consider SABA as a viable choice.

I believe our school offers many important qualities that provide value to the student academic experience.

We're a very small school with an enthusiastic team of dedicated educators who are fully committed to the success of each of our students; so no child is ever overlooked or unappreciated. Each child we serve is known, understood, valued and supported in their efforts to achieve their fullest potential in life. Our Personalized Education Plans (PEP) ensure that every pupil gets the individualized instruction they deserve.

As North Carolina's first tuition-free charter school developed specifically for boys, we also have more latitude in our academic focus. We follow the NC Standard Course of Study and prepare our students to achieve success with their annual testing requirements. Equally important, we also place significant emphasis on character qualities, personal values and whole child development that nourishes our boys' minds, bodies and spirits.

In developing our school, we've devoted a great deal of effort to creating a scholastic environment that will specifically serve the needs of young boys. Our academic focus and emphasis on the arts, coupled with physical activity and extracurricular programming will provide our students with a passion for learning and an optimistic outlook on the world around them.

We can provide a nurturing environment where socialization skills and team building are developed. Further, our curriculum is devised specifically to serve the learning qualities and characteristics that are unique to boys in their formative years. We understand what makes boys tick.

We have a few remaining seats to fill for our 2023-24 school year. If SABA sounds like the kind of school that could be of service to your family (or perhaps other families that come to mind), I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to engage further.

I've included an application link here, in case you (or others you care to forward this note to) are interested in completing a no-obligation enrollment form that would help us make note of your interest in SABA. I'm also happy to talk further and can be reached at vtoomer@sabacademy.org.

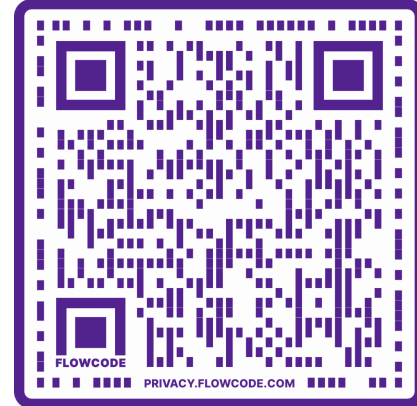

Please allow me to thank you for taking a moment to share this information with you. I hope you and your family have a successful school year and that our paths may cross in some fashion in the future.

To Your Children's Academic Success,

Mrs. Valencia Toomer, Founder/Head of School
School of the Arts for Boys Academy (SABA)

Please feel free to forward this email to anyone else you know who would be good candidates for SABA. Thank you!
